The Merchant who Does Not Advertise.

The merchant who does not advertise is distinguished very easily by his careworn and dejected countenance. He is grasping, holds fast to what he has and is afraid to venture. He is generally selfish, and looks upon all customers with disgust. The miserly eagerness with which he clutches the pay for his goods creates an antipathy for him in the minds of his patrons, and they generally leave him. His store is anything but inviting, as the goods are not displayed at all, and a bleak appearance of the walls is the consequence. He generally has dry goods, groceries, hardware, etc., all jumbled up together. At night he lights his store with the poorest quality of candles which shed a pale glimmer over his goods, giving them an old and dusty look. At his story you will be certain to find mean whis e soft soap, damaged dry goods and groceries—all last year's fashions, &c. He seldom gives anything for public improvement or charitable purposes, and measures mankind generally in his own half bushel. Such a man never helps to build railroads, steamboats, telegraph lines, or anything of the kind. If the balance of mankind were like him, stage coaches would be the only public conveyances. Where great cities now stand, a few double pen log houses and a bar room would be instead. Colleges and schools would never have been thought of, and blissful ignorance would now reign supreme. He is never posted on the topics of the day, nor is he informed in regard to commercial affairs, because he shuts himself off from the sources of information by discountenancing the press, the only means through which it can be attained. And when he dies, he is not generally lamented. [Exchange.

NEWPORT DAILY NEWS.

MONDAY, Sept. 25, 1871.

The Newport Journal.

SUMMER residents who wish a Newport paper during the winter and do not care for a daily issue, can have the NEWPORT JOURNAL, published once a week, sent to their address by leaving orders at this office. The JOURNAL contains a full report of local news, will record all real estate transactions, and give especial attention to improvements in and about the city. Price two dollars a year.

Editorial Notes.

Several heavy fires are reported today.

Horace Greeley thinks he is running for the Presidency. It is a singular case of misconception.

The steamer Lafayette, of the Transatlantic line, has been burned at Havre. Lost about $900,000. She was insured in France.

There seems to be trouble brewing at Salt Lake. The Mormon leaders are likely to be indicted for bigamy, and as a consequence the Mormon militia are drilling by night.—Uncle Samuel isn't at all afraid.

Butler stock seems on the rise in Massachusetts, and we shall not be surprised if the hero of New Orleans secures the regular nomination. If not he will undoubtly run as the candidate of the "isms" in general.

Reports from Iowa say that Senator Harlan will be reelected by a large majority. We are glad of it, as it is well to have some honest men at Washington. Senator Harlan has long been an eyesore to the scheming politicians.

The New York World still defends "thus indirectly," the Tammany corruptionists. So do, in fact, more than three fourths of the democratic newspapers. As honest democrats throughout the country do not, their voices will doubtless be heard on election day.

Municipal affairs in New York remain about as they have been for several days past. Tweed who fixes the majorities in advance says his, at the next election, will be 30,000. He could as well make it 60,000: only a little more repeating would be necessary.

The Small Pox.

This loathsome disease is making terrible ravages in some of the towns and cities in New England. In Lowell there were 65 new cases last week. Nearer home, we have the record, that Warren has had a large number of cases, and Bristol is just becoming thoroughly alarmed, as the disease is making additional inroads among the people. Several cases have appeared in Providence, and the indications are that its prevalence is to become quite general. Under these circumstances, it is very natural, and very proper, for us to inquire if the authorities of Newport are doing all in their power to prevent its introduction and spread in our city. In Lowell, two persons have just been smartly fined for not having been vaccinated as required by an ordinance of the city. This is as it should be, only it is not well to wait until the disease is upon us before we take action. Vaccination should be compulsory everywhere. The man who neglects it, not only puts his own life in jeopardy, but imperils at the same time the lives of scores and hundreds of his fellow men. In view of the ravages of the disease all around us we submit that the time has fully come when vigorous action should be taken. When small pox has made its appearance among us, it may be too late.

Irving's Tenderness for Animals.

A little incident showing Washington Irving's fondness for even the lowest forms of creation was told us by our hosts. A party of gentlemen from town having made him a morning call, one of the group, while loitering on the lawn at Sunnyside, espied a small striped adder gliding nimbly away. Pursuing it, he tried to strike it with his cane. Mr. Irving quickly ran to the spot, and picking up the passive reptile, stroked it gently with his finger, exclaiming "My dear sir, pray don't hurt the charming little thing!" The poet Campbell declared of Irving that "he had imparted charity to the English tongue."—May it not be also truly said of him, as of a beloved brother author, that he was "very humane, indeed?" [Lippincott's Magazine

The story of the Battle of Dorking does not surpass in its account of wonderful blunderings the ludicrous reality of the autumn manœuvres of the British army. The First Life Guards are the victims of the most serious joke. This fine cavalry regiment left Windsor for Aldershot, and reached safely their encampment on Cove common. Night came on, a time when the gentlemen riders usually send their studs to stable in care of their grooms. But, no stable existing on Cove common, each cavalryman picketed his horse in the style whose theory he had learned: when suddenly a disturbing element, some say two quarrelling dogs, and others a flock of geese, stampeded the whole regiment of 300 horses, and away they went, with saddle cloths and picket stakes over the country. The animals rushed in all directions, mad with fright, staked themselves, drowned themselves, or spoiled themselves by racing at top speed over fifteen miles of country. Prince Arthur was with this regiment.

It is stated that Preston, the Haytien minister to Washington, who has recently returned from his country, has been instructed to request the cabinet at Washington to use its friendly offices in bringing about peace between Dominica and Hayti. The British charge d'affairs at Port au Prince, Spencer St. John, recently visited Baez at St. Domingo, and tendered him his aid, unofficially, in reaching satisfactory conclusions with Hayti, provided Baez would give up the scheme of annexation to the United States. President Baez deliberated awhile and finally informed St. John that consultation with the United States must first be had before he could give him an answer. Secretary of State Gautier was despatched immediately to New York to consult President Grant.

The appeal which Mr. Robert B. Roosevelt makes to his constituents in the card accompanying his speech at the great meeting of Sept. 4, will not fall upon inattentive ears. Mr. Roosevelt has taken the only course by which any Democratic politician now holding office by the aid of Tammany Hall can expect a future; and his gallant services in the cause of good government have not been ungratefully received and will not be forgotten.

Nebraska is exultant. "The Great American Desert," which, according to legend and erroneous present opinions, cannot raise fruit, took the field against the Union in the pomological exhibition at Richmond and bore off the palm. It took the first premium for the best collection of fruits.

The proprietors of the cheese factory in North Chester, N. H., are making arrangements to hold a celebration early in October. They have now in the press a cheese containing 1750 pounds of milk, which they think will weigh 700 pounds when pressed. On the day of the celebration this cheese will be cut and distributed to the crowd. Leander Wetherill of the Boston Cultivator will deliver an address, and the affair will wind up with a dance.

Modern Extravagance.

The London Spectator, in commenting upon the increasing extravagance exhibited among wealthy people at the present day, remarks:

"It is coming rapidly to this—that a first-class leader of society with a first-class fortune, to be 'on a level with his position,' wants or chooses to think he wants, a house in London, a house on the river, two palaces at least in the country, a shooting box in the Highlands, a hotel in Paris, a villa at Como, a tour in Rome, an establishment in Cairo or Constantinople, a yacht, a theatre and a racing stud, and then thinks that life is as monotonous as it was when 'in his cool hall with haggard eyes the Roman noble lay.'"

Life at Long Branch.

A correspondent sums up the frivolous life at Long Branch as follows:

And this is the whole of existence at Long Branch;—eating and drinking and sleeping at regular hours; bathing at the proper height of the tide; driving for a few minutes in the evening; promenading and staring a great deal; dancing a little; and now and then getting a glimpse of the horses in a hurdle-race or a two mile "dash." "Much like the life at other watering places," you may say. Very true, my friend; but, for all that, there are wide differences between Long Branch and the other two great summer resorts of America—Saratoga and Newport. It is not cosmopolitan like the former, and in this respect our sobriquet of the "American Boulogne" is inaccurate,—for New York, New Jersey and Philadelphia furnish more than nine-tenths of all its guests; and as yet it lacks almost wholly the grace and attractiveness which centre about the social life of the beautiful Rhode Island city. Its nearness to the metropolis, puts it under the peculiar disadvantages of a place accessible to the "rough-scuff" for a day's pleasuring. Its ocean, its surf, and its beach however, are noble charms, and entitle it to a more eminent position than it has yet attained. As for the quality of its society, we may as well state in so many words the truth which has already been intimated in this sketch, that the society at Long Branch on the whole, is deficient in refinement, cultivation and high intelligence. To this general rule there are, of course, many personal exceptions, and, if one were to judge by a certain particular hotel that could be named, he might be led to a more favorable conclusion. But the truth remains. The atmosphere of the place is sensuous, gross and earthly. Men of letters and of the highest social position generally avoid it like a pestilence. Nobody in it seems to read anything but the newspapers. One longs and listens in vain for conversation that shall rise in its topics even to the level of Offenbach's last opera, or the latest sensation novel; but on every hand he hears twaddle about dress and stock jobbing, or gossip about millionaires and dubious ladies of fashion. Even the flirting is not inspired by sufficient wit to be entertaining to outsiders.

Woman.

In Saramel county, Wyoming, one sixth of the votes were cast by females, and that country went largely democratic.

A woman at a revival meeting in Ohio said she found her jewelry was dragging her down to hell, and so gave it all to a younger sister.

A Racine girl wanted her lover to swear on the Bible that she was all in the world to him, and when he wouldn't she knocked him down with the sacred volume.

A lady in Columbus, Ohio, fell in love with a Californian worth $270,000 who sat beside her, and succeeded in marrying him within a week.

Miss Lillian Edgarton's new lecture is entitled "Gossip: Its Causes and Cure." Alas! Lillian may talk until she is black in the face, but gossip will never be "cured."

Underwood, the Virginia carpet-bag judge, is out in a letter in which he takes the ground that women have a right to vote at the presidential election in 1872.

The women in Nebraska, in view of the fact that if the new constitution is adopted they will be allowed to vote, are making preparations to desert their husbands and children at a day's notice.

Of the three thousand persons under arrest in France for "denouncing" others and exposing them to the violence of the commune at least two thousand are women.—Many of them are young and beautiful.

An ill-tempered western father forcibly removed his daughter from a circus because while there, she allowed a young lawyer to put his arm about her neck and comb her golden locks with his fingers. Could severity go further.

Educational Veneering.

Veneering is a great art. It makes things "go so much farther," and there is nothing an economist likes so much as to make things hold out. Our ancestors were so foolish as to build solid mahogany tables, bureaus, and sideboards. We know better. We have found out that a piece of wood a sixteenth of an inch thick will transform the commonest weed into mahogany or rosewood. And so the honest old tables and sideboards have given place to sleek veneered ones, which look just as well.

A monument should be built to the man who discovered this wonderful art, for its applications are so numerous. The crockery men sell imitation china; they have learned the art of veneering. The rogue veneers himself with the dress and manners of a gentleman. The cook veneers her dishes. The shaky broker veneers his credit by keeping up appearances. The parson, alas! sometimes veneers his sermon with thin layers of learning. The doctor veneers his conversation with sounding phrases. The politician veneers his thieving by thin patriotism. The fortune-hunter veneers his cupidity with professions of love. What a wonderful art it is! How bad we should feel if the veneering were taken off, and all our purposes, acquirements, and pretentions appeared the naked pine and poplar which they are.

But when it comes to education, we wish veneering had never been invented. And now that George and Maria are about to begin school, let us enter our protest against the veneering establishments. There are schools for boys and hundreds of schools for girls, where the whole business transacted is the putting on a thin layer of outward appearances. Everything is taught from a compend.—History is boiled down to a strong decoction of facts and dates, and Ann Matilda is required to swallow it. "There were five thousand on one side, commanded by Gen Brown. There were seven thousand on the other, commanded by General Smith.—General Smith was surprised on Sunday morning, and driven back with a loss of five hundred men and three pieces of artillery." This Ann Matilda, and Ann Matilda's parents, and Ann Matilda's friends fondly believe is history. It is paid for as history, labelled history, and must be history. But whatever there is of philosophy, of poetry, of culture, of mental discipline in history is gone. This dessicated extract has no nourishment whatever. Of the peculiarities of race, of the domestic life, of the underlying causes of history, Ann Matilda learns nothing. She has swallowed a register, a gazetteer, but not a history. But she has passed her examination and "graduated." Her education is all right. It has the seal of the proper authorities on it, and she can go in peace.

English literature is worse taught than history. It is a thing that cannot be learned from a compend. The very essence of the highest culture for people who speak English language is in English literature. No one can learn English literature at second hand. A good, thorough knowledge of the authors themselves in their works is the only road to this culture. And all short cuts are delusions.

The great mistake in the education of girls, and for that matter of boys, is that they master nothing. A little here and a little there is the plan. The object seems to be to enable the pupil to give a long catalogue of things studied. And for this charlatanism, the parents who demand it are chiefly responsible. There are schools which are thorough. It is not for us to point them out, but for parents to be sure that they are not caught with the chaff of an empty pretense. In education, veneering will peal off. [Hearth and Home.

Feeding Fodder Corn.

Charles Strange, Grass Valley, Pa., asks how fodder corn should be fed, whether green or wilted. He says his grandfather, when he wanted to dry up a cow, used to put her in a lot and feed her with all the green stalks she would eat, and did not milk her; in a few days she would be dry. If this is correct, it shows that we now a days have improved on the old fashioned modes, for we feed greencorn fodder and get more milk. There is a difference of opinion among dairy men as to the relative value of wilted and fresh fodder, but so far as the experience of the writer goes in feeding, and in our conversation with dairy men, we have learned that it is best to feed it when wilted by some hours' exposure to the sun. What is cut in the morning is fed at night and the morning's feed is cut in the evening. The cows eat it with more relish, probably for the reason that fermentation of the juices has occurred to some extent. [American Agriculturist.

Tweed Selling Out.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.

It is reported that members of the Ring are transferring their property to friends not involved in the public frauds. Tweed transferred $43,000 on deposit in the Union Square Bank, Thursday, to his son, and has recently sold nearly two and a half million dollars worth of real estate.

SITUATION UNCHANGED.

The municipal situation remains unchanged, and public attention is now directed to the meeting of the supervisors tomorrow for the next important movement.

MAYOR HALL'S DEFIANCE.

Mayor Hall still refuses to recognize Deputy Controller Green, saying that if he should send him any communication he would take no notice of it; and in reply to those who urged his resignation, he yesterday caused to be conspicuously posted in the City Hall a placard inscribed: "Elected the first of January, 1871, for two years, ending 31st of December, 1872. That is my answer."

Harvest Festival at Portsmouth.

The interesting correspondent to the Providence Journal, writes: On Thursday, the 21st instant, as previously arranged, the "Harvest Festival" was held at St. Mary's church. For a part of the day the sky was overcast with clouds from the southeast horizon to the zenith, while from the northwest it was clear, the air was cool, all reminding us that this was about the turning point between summer and autumn. Whether the clear or cloudy weather was to prevail was in doubt, as we do not have an opportunity here to consult "Old Probabilities," until the truth of his predictions have been verified or refuted. Finally the clouds passed away, and when the probabilities were received, we found that they had been verified as usual. The church we found neatly and tastefully trimmed for the occasion. In the vestibule were baskets of fruit and other products of the earth, which would have done credit to any agricultural fair. Opposite the entrance was the baptismal font, filled, surrounded, covered with flowers. Back of the font and in front of the monument was a shock of Indian corn. In the window seat of each of the windows, four on each side of the church, were eight baskets filled with fruit beautifully arranged. Pendant from the large brackets on each side of the church were baskets of flowers and fruit, and also vines with the grapes still on them. On each side of the church, near the chancel, were large shocks of Indian corn with ripening ears exposed to view. On the wall of the church, near the chancel, was the sentence in large green letters, "The Lord of the Harvest." The chancel and altar were profusely decorated with gorgeous flowers and delicious grapes. In all the decorations the flowers and fruits of the earth were present in great variety and profusion, leading to the thought that Ceres had scattered here in boundless profusion, and leading the heart forth in thanksgiving to the loving Father who is the author and bestower of every good gift.

At 11 1-2 o'clock A. M. the very appropriate service of the church for such occasions was read by Rev. Hobert Williams, assisted by Rev. Mr. Chace, of St. Paul's Church, in this town, and by Rev. Mr. Child of Newport. This was followed by a very appropriate and interesting discourse by Mr. Child, from Ex. XXIII: 16. The church was filled with an attentive congregation.—At the close of the exercises in the church, the large company repaired to the beautiful grounds, where tables were most bountifully spread by the ladies of the parish. At about 2 o'clock, no second invitation was needed by the people to gather around the tables. After a blessing by Rev. Dr. Davis, of Philadelphia, full justice was done to the provisions with which the tables were loaded, and still there remained sufficient for many more. Then for a time, croquet, ring-toss, etc. were in order. At the ringing of the church bell, the people again gathered in the church, a hymn was sung by the choir, prayer offered by Rev. Mr. Williams, who, with the benediction, then dismissed the assembly. Thus, for the first time in Rhode Island, was this service given in this form, and certainly it was found to be most appropriate and delightful. The wish was expressed by many of the company that this may be only the beginning of many anniversaries of the Harvest Festival.

Over-doctored.

Without any disrespect to the members of the medical profession, a profession honored by all thinking men, it is only just to say that they are too thick on the ground. The consequence is that the community is doctored over much. When nature needs only the gentle stimulant and alterative, which has become famous throughout the country as a reliable medicine, under the name of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, she is not unfrequently dosed with a dozen prescriptions, all experimental, from the Pharmacopœia. This is an evil, and proves that the practice of medicine is far from being at all times a healing art. At this period of the year, when the fall of the leaf indicates that decay has seized upon the vegetable kingdom, many harassing diseases are prevalent. Chief among these may be mentioned intermittent fever and bilious remittent. The exhalations rising from decomposing vegetation, and the heavy dews and fogs, are very apt to generate these complaints. The wisest policy is to protect the system by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters at the commencement of the fall. Much suffering may thereby be avoided. But if the disease has already begun, its periodical visitations may readily be checked and broken up by this active, yet harmless, vegetable tonic.

But be on your guard against the charlatans who are attempting to palm off, under various names, unwholesome compounds, which they pretend to compare favorably with the great national elixir, which has long since swept more formidable opposition from the field. Bear in mind that every bottle of genuine Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is authenticated by a splendidly engraved label, and a fac simile of the elgn manual of the firm. Put up in bottles only, and cannot be obtained in bulk. [illegible]

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 11, 1870.

I have used "Dr. Bullock's Nephreticum" for several months past for a disease of the Kidneys and Bladder of ten years standing. During all that long and gloomy period I suffered at times attacks of the most excruciating pains and tried all kinds of medicines and many eminent physicians, with little relief at times, yet with no permanent, lasting benefit. At last I was induced to try "Nephreticum," and after continuing its use for a considerable period of time, I began to be benefited, and now I feel satisfied that I have obtained permanent, and, I trust, lasting relief. I still take "Nephreticum" and give to my friends. For a year past I have had no severe attacks of disease. I feel it has given me a new lease of life, and I most cheerfully and confidently recommend "Nephreticum" as a reliable, safe and sure remedy for diseases of the Bladder and Kidneys.

The Cause and Cure of Consumption.

The primary cause of Consumption is derangement of the digestive organs. This derangement produces deficient nutrition and assimilation. By assimilation I mean that process by which the nutriment of the food is converted into blood, and thence into the solids of the body. Persons with digestion thus impaired, having the slightest predisposition to pulmonary disease, or if they take cold, will be very liable to have Consumption of the Lungs in some of its forms; and I hold that it will be impossible to cure any case of Consumption without first restoring a good digestion and healthy assimilation. The very first thing to be done is to cleanse the stomach and bowels from all diseased mucus and slime which is clogging these organs so that they cannot perform their functions, and then rouse up and restore the liver to a healthy action. For this purpose the surest and best remedy is Schenck's Mandrake Pills. These Pills cleanse the stomach and bowels of all the dead and morbid slime that is causing disease and decay in the whole system. They will clear out the liver of all diseased bile that has accumulated there, and arouse it up to a new and healthy action, by which natural and healthy bile is secreted.

The stomach, bowels and liver are thus cleansed by the use of Schenck's Mandrake Pills; but there remains in the stomach an excess of acid, the organ is torpid and the appetite is poor. In the bowels, the lacteals are weak, and requiring strength and support. It is in a condition like this that Schenck's Seaweed Tonic proves to be the most valuable remedy ever discovered. It is alkaline, and its use will neutralize all excess of acid, making the stomach sweet and fresh; it will give permanent tone to this important organ, and create a good, hearty appetite, and prepare the system for the first process of a good digestion, and ultimately make good, healthy, living blood. After this preparatory treatment, what remains to cure most cases of consumption is the free and persevering use of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup. The Pulmonic Syrup nourishes the system, purifies the blood, and is readily absorbed into the circulation, and thence distributed to the diseased lungs. There it ripens all morbid matters, whether in the form of abscesses or tubercles, and then assists Nature to expel all the diseased matter in the form of free expectoration, when once it ripens. It is then, by the great healing and purifying properties of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, that all ulcers and cavities are healed up sound, and my patient is cured.

The essential thing to be done in curing Consumption is to get up a good appetite and a good digestion, so that the body will grow in flesh and get strong. If a person has diseased lungs, a cavity or abscess there, the cavity cannot heal, the matter cannot ripen, so long as the system is below par. What is necessary to cure is a new order of things, a good appetite, a good nutrition, the body to grow in flesh and get fat; then Nature is helped, the cavities will heal, the matter will ripen, and be thrown off in large quantities, and the person regain health and strength. This is the true and only plan to cure Consumption, and if a person is very bad, if the lungs are not entirely destroyed, or even if one lung is entirely gone, if there is enough vitality left in the other to heal, there is hope.

I have seen many persons cured with only one sound lung, live and enjoy life to a good old age.—This is what Schenck's medicines will do to cure Consumption. They will clean out the stomach, sweeten and strengthen it, get up a good digestion, and give Nature the assistance she needs to clear the system of all the disease that is in the lungs, whatever the form may be.

It is important that while using Schenck's medicines, care should be exercised not to take cold; keep in-doors in cool and damp weather; avoid night air, and take out-door exercise only in a genial and warm sunshine.

I wish it distinctly understood that when I recommend a patient to be careful in regard to taking cold while using my medicines, I do so for a special reason. A man who has but partially recovered from the effects of a bad cold is far more liable to a relapse than one who has been entirely cured, and it is precisely the same in regard to consumption. So long as the lungs are not perfectly healed, just so long is there imminent danger of a full return of the disease. Hence it is that I so strenuously caution pulmonary patients against exposing themselves to an atmosphere that is not genial and pleasant. Confirmed consumptives' lungs are a mass of sores, which the least change of atmosphere will inflame. The grand secret of my success with my medicines consists in my ability to subdue inflammation instead of provoking it, as many of the faculty do. An inflamed lung cannot with safety to the patient be exposed to the biting blasts of winter or the chilling winds of spring or autumn. It should be carefully shielded from all irritating influences. The utmost caution should be observed in this particular, as without it a cure under almost any circumstances is an impossibility.

The person should be kept on a wholesome and nutritious diet, and all the medicines continued until the body has restored to it the natural quantity of flesh and strength.

I was myself cured by this treatment of the worst kind of Consumption, and have lived to get fat and hearty these many years, with one lung mostly gone. I have cured thousands since, and very many have been cured by this treatment whom I have never seen.

About the first of October I expect to take possession of my new building at the north-east corner of Sixth and Arch streets, where I shall be pleased to give advice to all who may require it.

Full directions accompany all my remedies, so that a person in any part of the world can be readily cured by a strict observance of the same.

Yours, respectfully,

Criticising Newspapers.

It is a very easy matter to criticise a newspaper; but to publish a live one, so as to interest, amuse, and instruct the public, is no small undertaking. Those in this community who are so prone to find fault with every little item which does not suit their critical and exalted ideas, should buy type, ink, and paper, and publish an organ of their own. Let them try it for three months only, and if it don't give them some new idea of the newspaper business, then we are no judge of human nature. The conceit would be taken out of such individuals so quickly that they would hardly know what was the matter with them, or whether they stood on their heads or feet. [Exchange.

WE invite those in want of Furniture of any kind, to call and examine our stock, and think it would be for their advantage, for the following reasons:

1st. We purchase our lumber from the mills at the West, where it is taken direct from the forest; and import our Upholstery goods from the manufacturers in Europe, thereby saving the profit of the Importer and the Lumber Dealer.

2d. We manufacture on a large scale and are enabled to get the best workmen because we can employ them the year round; and in manufacturing articles by the hundred we can do so much cheaper than those who manufacture only by the dozen.

3d. We have double the quantity and variety of goods, and nearly double the room to display them of any Furniture house in Boston, thereby offering purchasers a better chance to suit their taste.

4th. Our rent is cheaper than that of any other Furniture house in Boston, considering the amount of goods sold, and as our sales are large we can afford to sell at a small profit, and are willing to do so.

ROMANISM AS IT IS.

THIS BOOK, AN ELEGANT OCTAVO VOLUME, CONTAINING 750 PAGES, AND 105 FIRST-CLASS ENGRAVINGS, IS AN EXHAUSTIVE AND STANDARD WORK, eminently adapted to the times. THE

THE NOVELTY CLOTHES WRINGER.

Nothing, except the Sewing Machine, has ever been invented which so much relieves the labor of the household as the Wringer. But its usefulness does not end here. The saving of clothing is of much greater importance. It is often remarked that articles of fine texture, last twice as long when wrung in a Wringer as when wrung by hand. The NOVELTY has Cog-wheels on both ends. * * The rolls are allowed to separate freely at either end. These, besides other advantages which it contains, seem to be indispensable to a practical wringer.

New York Independent.

The Novelty Wringer.—Has become an indispensable institution in thousands of families.— And we believe its great and increasing popularity is fully merited —for the Novelty evidently possesses all the requisites of a first-class, practical machine. Indeed, after using one for many months in our own family, we are prepared to indorse the Novelty as unsurpassed (the laundress says unequaled) by any of the several wringers previously tried.—Moore's Rural New Yorker.
